Dear All

I think that an oversight means that our plans for Orangerie might not have not been communicated to everyone and want to make sure that you are all now updated.

The company that we get the Orangerie bottle from have removed it from their stock list and made it a special order item, with very inflated minimum-order quantities. The result of this is that is not practical for us to buy this bottle any longer.

It is our intention to re-develop Orangerie with another bottle but it has not been possible to do this in 2006, while we have also been evolving the design of all our other packaging. As a result of this Orangerie will be unavailable this year but it is our plan to bring in back in 2007 and we will have more news for you on this in due course.

Kind regards
Robbie
